1.2 Trading of Foreign Exchange (Forex) contracts and other Over-The-Counter (OTC) derivatives and investment products such as contracts for difference and fixed return options, can carry a high level of risk. These products may not be suitable for all investors. In some instances, it is possible to lose more than your initial investment. You should carefully consider whether trading is suitable for you considering your circumstances, knowledge, and financial resources.

1.3 Opinions, market data, and recommendations are subject to change at any time. All funds committed should be risk capital. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results.

1.4 Trading Forex and other OTC Derivatives is a challenging and potentially profitable opportunity for educated and experienced investors. However, before deciding to invest in these products, you should carefully consider your investment objectives, level of experience and risk appetite. Most importantly, do not invest money you cannot afford to lose.

1.5 There is considerable exposure of risk in any OTC or off-exchange transaction, including, but not limited to, leverage, creditworthiness, limited regulatory protection and market volatility that may substantially affect the price or liquidity of a currency, commodity or other underlying asset.

1.6 Moreover, the leveraged nature of some Forex and OTC Derivative products means that any market movement will have an equally proportional effect on your deposited funds. This may work against you as well as for you. The possibility exists that you could sustain a total loss of initial margin funds and be required to deposit additional funds to maintain your position. If you fail to meet any margin requirement, your position may be liquidated and you will be responsible for any outstanding debit balances.
